The Ghosts of Christmas Eve is a recurring seasonal concert production by Trans-Siberian Orchestra. The program follows a narrative centered on themes of reflection and connection during the holiday season and is presented through a combination of original music, orchestral arrangements, and staged visual elements.

The December 17 performance is part of the orchestra’s annual winter tour, which includes scheduled appearances in multiple cities across the United States during the holiday period.

Admission to the performance is by ticket. Ticket prices vary based on seating location and availability. Tickets are available through authorized ticketing outlets and the venue.
