

Cosmetic Dentist In Livingston Offers Online Appointment Requests

/EINPresswire.com/ WEST ORANGE, NJ – Leading cosmetic dentist in Livingston, Dr. Ivan Stein, is committed to providing his patients with the best dental care possible. In doing so, Dr. Stein is excited to offer his patients the opportunity to request their next appointment online through a convenient new feature via Northfield Dental Group's website.

Patients no longer need to interrupt their busy schedules to make an appointment with Dr. Ivan Stein, New Jersey top dentist, by calling the office. By maintaining an up-to-date, interactive website, Dr. Stein is pleased to offer this new online feature for patients to make their next appointment with his office.

With problems arising at any point of the day, patients can now request appointments online via the practice's website. When symptoms arise, patients can simply submit an appointment request via the practice's website without altering their schedule. The practice's new appointment requesting feature has allowed this cosmetic dentist in West Orange to offer more convenient and easy ways for patients to make appointments with him and his dedicated staff.

"I understand that it may not always be easy for my patients to take a break from their busy day to call my office during our business hours. With their busy lives, they can often ignore their dental problems and it may even slip their mind to make an appointment," said Dr. Ivan Stein, dentist providing cosmetic fillings in Livingston. "For this reason I have added the convenient online appointment requesting feature. With this option, patients now have the opportunity to request their appointment from the comfort of their own home, office or mobile device."

Patients can access the new appointment requesting feature online via Northfield Dental Group's interactive website at <http://www.northfielddentalgroup.com>. By accessing this new online feature, patients can simply complete the brief request form with their preferred date and time, and submit the form to Dr. Stein, a dentist providing bonding in Livingston. Once the scheduling coordinator has received the request, they will contact the patient with their confirmed date and time.

Bringing quality experiences and easy dental care comes natural for Dr. Ivan Stein of Northfield Dental Group. He is committed to pursuing ongoing education, and is also dedicated to providing patients with comfort and convenience, which is exhibited by the availability of online appointment requesting. From teeth whitening to implants in Livingston, patients can now request their appointment online without interrupting their day.
