

Need Help with an AT&T Promotional Code? Financial Advisor's Site Offers Assistance

/EINPresswire.com/ Financial advisor and Newsweek columnist David Ning has been on a mission for years to help people save money. One of his primary vehicles to that end is a site called CouponShoeBox.com. Most recently, he is helping readers acquire an AT&T promotional code.

More and more people are getting their TV, Internet, and phone services in a single bundle these days. For those who aren't, the new AT&T promotional code offered on CouponShoebox.com may be just the thing to get them started.

The bundle includes TV service with 3 months of free HBO and free Cinemax; DSL Pro Internet at $19.95 per month for a year; Voice service; and a DVR thrown in for good measure.

David Ning is no stranger to the world of saving money. By way of Coupon Shoebox, his column in the online version of Newsweek, and his personal finance blog MoneyNing.com, Ning provides readers with tips on increasing savings, while decreasing spending.

"There are really two basic goals when it comes to building solid net worth," says Ning. "Creating more income, and saving more of it."

But you don't have to be focused on your personal wealth and savings in order to take advantage of the AT&T promotional code and other coupons on his site. CouponShoebox.com also offers clothing coupons, travel coupons, electronics coupons, food coupons, and even health-related coupons.

While some of the coupons and promotional codes on the site require an "act-now" attitude, many of them also remain good for weeks or even months.

For example, the same page with the AT&T promo code for bundled Internet, TV, and voice also includes individual UVerse Internet and UVerse TV services, for those who don't want the bundle. It even includes a discount coupon for existing AT&T customers.

The TV, voice, and Internet service discount coupons at Coupon Shoebox aren't just limited to

AT&T, though. The site also features Verizon promo codes, discounts on Boost Mobile services, discounts on Android phones, and even a Direct TV promo code or two.

Visitors to the site who are shopping around can view the online coupon codes via category on the site. But Coupon Shoebox also has a built-in "similar offers" featured on each product-specific page. That way, readers looking for an AT&T promo code, for example, also have a chance to see competitors' offers at the bottom of the same page.

Readers who are interested in saving money are encouraged to visit <http://CouponShoebox.com/shop/att-com> to redeem their AT&T promotional code, or one of hundreds of others.

CouponShoebox.com is a blog created by David Ning to provide readers with a commonsense approach to saving money, achieving fiscal responsibility and securing financial freedom.
