Founder and Principal Nicole Sodoma shared, “One of the greatest privileges of building Sodoma has been watching talented people grow into leaders—and then watching those leaders help shape what we become next. For me, that is what legacy really means. It isn't simply about what we build while we are here; it is about creating something strong enough to be entrusted to others, carried forward, and made even better every single day.”

An ownership milestone like this represents trust, responsibility, investment, and a shared commitment to what comes next for Sodoma Law.

As the largest family law practice across the Carolinas, Sodoma Law is focused on leaving clients better than when they found them—eliminating blind spots, empowering clarity, and providing real life perspective on how to navigate divorce and family transitions.
