The Redeem Capitalism Initiative by Analyticom LLC promotes Capitalism in the U.S. and Beyond

The Millionaire Modality program provides people with a path to prosperity ensuring that financially secure people will endorse capitalism and reject socialism

SAN FRANCISCO, CA, UNITED STATES, September 9, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- During economic uncertainty, some people endorse socialism, not because they identify with the philosophy, but rather because they feel left out of the capitalistic system. Put simply, they do not see how they are going to accumulate wealth to secure their future. The solution is to provide these people with a path to prosperity by enabling them to build wealth over time, according to Dr. Dan Geller, Behavioral Economist and the President of Analyticom LLC.

He has devoted two decades to researching the link between financial decisions and abundance. He has created an optimal instrument model that enables ordinary people to accumulate wealth. The Millionaire Modality program utilizes the Scientifically Predictable model that is based on two established scientific principles in behavioral economics and decision science.

The two established scientific principles, at the core of the Scientifically Predictable model, are the dual-decision principle and the money anxiety principle. The dual-decision principle governs people's use of the instinctive-response and the analytical-response modes, while the money anxiety principle mediates between the two modes. When money anxiety is elevated, people default to their instinctive-response mode. When money anxiety subsides, people use their analytical-response mode.

“The Millionaire Modality program requires adherence to the Scientifically Predictable investing model and to making annual contributions to an investment or retirement account,” said Dr.

Geller. “The program could produce over a million dollars in 18 years, or less, if the investment account already carries a balance. The projection is based on a long-term average return of 25% annually produced by the Scientifically Predictable investing model,” continues Dr. Geller.

The Millionaire Modality program can be used by self-directed investors or by investment companies. Self-directed investors may use their existing investment platform and simply follow the projection of the top five ETFs produced by the Scientifically Predictable model. The program produces monthly updates of the top five ETFs based on the model’s projection.

The Millionaire Modality program is a long-term investment approach that is near passive and requires minimal changes in position. The program has been shown to produce high returns with high confidence and peace of mind. Investors do not have to follow the market or make any changes to the top five ETFs selected by the investment model unless shown otherwise.

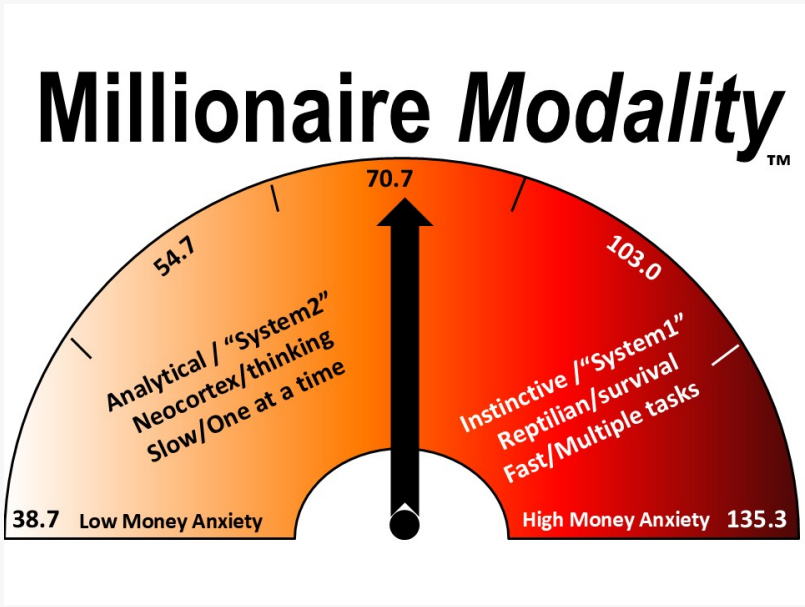
“Companies and organizations should adopt the Redeem Capitalism initiative by providing the Millionaire Modality program to their customers or members, enabling them to accumulate wealth over time. At the same time, these organizations will benefit from customers’ loyalty and revenue growth,” said Dr. Geller.

Companies and organizations can leverage the Millionaire Modality program as an incentive to attract new customers or members by offering them the program at no cost to them if they become customers of the company or members of the organization. Moreover, since the Millionaire Modality is a long-term program, participating companies and organizations can anticipate long engagements.

Key benefits to companies and organizations:

• Attract new customers or members by appealing to their desire for financial security.
• Offer a program that does not require any additional personnel or infrastructure.
• Establish a competitive advantage by offering the Millionaire Modality program.



Millionaire Modality

Key benefits to your customers or members:
• Customers/members will outperform the market with elevated level of confidence.
• They do not have to pay fees to an investment advisor or commission to the broker.
• They do not have to constantly monitor the market or make frequent repositioning.

Additionally, companies and organizations can freely use the Millionaire Modality program as a sales tool because the Scientifically Predictable model is self-directed, and it does not require any regulatory oversight because it is exempt from advisory registration based on the SEC's publisher's exclusion Section 202(a)(11)(D). Thus, it does not constitute investment advice.
