The 2026 Global Top 100 Inspiring Places to Work™ List, in association with Prezzee, announced

The first Global Top 100 announced under the new Inspiring Place to Work™ recognition identity

LONDON & NEW YORK, NY, UNITED STATES, September 10, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- • The list brings together the 100 highest-scoring organisations from the 2026 Inspiring Workplaces Awards across the world • The Global Top 100 Inspiring Places to Work™ include: Novo Nordisk, Tata Consultancy Services, Hitachi Energy, Flight Centre, SurveyMonkey, Colliers and more.

Inspiring Workplaces Group, in association with Prezzee, today announced its 2026 Global Top 100 Inspiring Places to Work™ List, celebrating the 100 highest-scoring organisations from its 2026 Inspiring Workplaces Awards around the world.

The Global Top 100 brings together the very best scoring organisations recognised earlier this year across Asia, Australasia, Europe, Latin America, Middle East & Africa, North America and UK & Ireland, celebrating those that have demonstrated an outstanding commitment to creating PeopleFirst cultures where people and performance thrive together.

While spanning different countries, sectors and organisation sizes, each organisation earned its place through the same independently judged, story-based awards process, demonstrating through evidence and impact how it is putting its people first.

The first Global Top 100 Inspiring Places to Work™
This year's announcement also marks an important milestone for Inspiring Workplaces Group.

Following the introduction of Inspiring Place to Work™ last week, every organisation recognised through the 2026 Inspiring Workplaces Awards became one of the first in the world to receive the new recognition identity.

Their achievement hasn't changed. The winners simply gained a stronger identity for it.

The 2026 list therefore becomes the first Global Top 100 Inspiring Places to Work™, giving 100 of the highest-scoring organisations from across the world an identity they can proudly carry throughout the year.

Matt Manners, Founder of Inspiring Workplaces Group, said: "Throughout the year, we have the privilege of celebrating inspiring organisations across each of our regions. The Global Top 100 is the moment we bring the very best of those organisations together in one place and recognise them on a truly global stage.

"Different countries. Different industries. Different sizes and challenges. But one thing connects them all: they have demonstrated through their story, evidence and impact, a commitment to creating workplaces where people and performance can thrive together.

"Every organisation on this list has earned its place. Congratulations to our 2026 Global Top 100. We're incredibly proud to recognise you."

About Inspiring Workplaces Group
Inspiring Workplaces Group is setting the global standard for PeopleFirst organisations by recognising, certifying and connecting workplace cultures where people and performance thrive together.
Organisations can achieve independent recognition through two distinct but complementary routes:
Inspiring Place to Work™ – earned through the global, independently judged, story-based Inspiring Workplaces Awards.
Certified PeopleFirst™ – earned through confidential employee feedback, independently measuring the belief, belonging and experience of an organisation's people.
Alongside recognition and certification, Inspiring Workplaces Group connects a global community of People, HR and business leaders through free events, insights, research and practical resources designed to help make work better.
Since 2015, its global community has championed the belief that inspiring cultures create stronger organisations, better leadership and a better world of work.
