Pipa Skincare Launches Limited-Edition "Everyday Hero" Bundle with “Miraculous: Tales of Ladybug & Cat Noir”

Pediatrician- and dermatologist-approved tween skincare line partners with the global animated hit on a special collection to encourage healthy skincare habits

MIAMI, FL, UNITED STATES, September 9, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Pipa, the skincare line made for tweens and their evolving skin, launched its first entertainment collaboration, the limited-edition Pipa x Miraculous® "Everyday Hero" Bundle, in partnership with Miraculous: Tales of Ladybug & Cat Noir, the global hit animated franchise from Miraculous Corp available on Disney Channel, Disney+, and Netflix.

> “I love that Marinette's story is about learning to trust yourself. That's what we want for tweens: a routine that's simple and a reminder that who you are is what makes you a hero.”
> Kristina Kubler, co-founder of Pipa

Pipa was created to give kids ages 8 to 13 a simple, safe, and age-appropriate way to care for their skin. That philosophy aligns naturally with Miraculous, where Marinette navigates the everyday challenges of adolescence while discovering her own courage and strength as Ladybug. Through this collaboration, Pipa and Miraculous aim to reinforce a shared message for tweens: confidence is a superpower, and caring for yourself is part of feeling your best.

Launched during National Skincare Awareness Month, the “Everyday Hero” Bundle is available for a limited time for $55. The set wraps three full-size Pipa best sellers in exclusive Ladybug and Cat Noir packaging, inside a collector box that doubles as the gift box:

- Sun-Sational - SPF 30 100% mineral sunscreen
- Skin Saver - hypochlorous acid spray to calm the skin
- Squeaky Clean - gentle facial cleanser that washes away dirt and buildup after a busy day
- Plus a collectible “Be Miraculous” keychain and sticker sheet

“I started Pipa because I watched my own daughter reach the age where she suddenly cared about her skin and realized that so much of what was on the shelf felt too strong for her," said

Kristina Kubler, co-founder of Pipa Skincare and a licensed esthetician. "I love that Marinette's story is about learning to trust yourself, and that's what makes Miraculous such a natural partner for us. We hope this collection helps tweens approach caring for their skin in that same spirit, with confidence, simplicity, and the reminder that being exactly who you are is what makes you a hero."

The collaboration welcomes Pipa as a new promotional partner within Miraculous Corp's growing U.S. retail program, expanding the brand into tween and teen skincare—a category that is closely aligned with its young audience. The news follows a milestone in Pipa's retail expansion: In June 2026, the brand launched in more than 100 Claire's locations across Los Angeles, New York, Miami, and Chicago, becoming the first full skincare line carried by the retailer.

The limited-edition skincare bundle is available at pipastics.com, on Amazon, and on TikTok Shop. For more, follow Pipa at @pipa_skincare on Instagram and TikTok.
