PHOENIX, AZ, UNITED STATES, September 9, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Phillips Law Group announced that 167 attorneys are actively working on the firm's Arizona personal injury cases during September 2026, reflecting the legal resources available across its Arizona injury practice.

The firm explained that the figure does not mean 167 attorneys are assigned to every individual matter. A client may work most closely with a primary attorney, while other attorneys and professionals contribute based on the needs of a particular claim. Depending on the case, that work may involve negotiation, litigation, discovery, liability analysis, medical evidence, insurance coverage, trial preparation or other specialized tasks.

Personal injury cases can become complex quickly, especially when serious injuries, commercial vehicles, multiple insurance policies, disputed liability or significant medical evidence are involved. Phillips Law Group said the depth of its legal network is intended to provide access to appropriate resources as a case develops.

The firm's Arizona personal injury operation also includes case managers, litigation professionals, investigators, medical-records teams, intake specialists and operational support staff. Together, these teams help move cases forward while supporting communication, evidence development and preparation for negotiation or litigation when necessary.

Phillips Law Group stated that the value of a large legal operation is not the number alone. The firm said the purpose of its legal and support infrastructure is to make resources available when an injured client's case requires them, while preserving a focus on the individual facts and needs of each matter.

For more than 30 years, Phillips Law Group has represented injured clients and families. The firm reports more than $2 billion recovered for clients and more than 185,000 individuals and families served. Its public attorney directory lists attorneys working across the firm's practice areas, and its public Verdicts and Settlements page includes matters involving vehicle crashes, trucking incidents, wrongful death, premises liability, product liability and other serious injuries.

The September 2026 attorney figure is a current operational metric supplied by Phillips Law Group and may change from month to month as matters, staffing and case assignments change.
