TISOH Marks 20 Years of Training Las Vegas' Hospitality Workforce with a New Award

Backed by 96% faculty satisfaction, TISOH earns Consumer Ratings Institute's Educator Performance Award for Las Vegas, Nevada.

LAS VEGAS, NV, UNITED STATES, September 15, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- TISOH, The International School of Hospitality, continues to build on two decades of accredited hospitality continuing education, offering online and in-class courses designed to prepare individuals and businesses for success in the service industry. Now marking its 20-year milestone, the school has grown into a recognized leader in hospitality education both locally and across the global hospitality sector.

TISOH's programs span diplomas and certificates, its trademarked CLIMB® professional development classes, corporate service training, and certification preparation, serving both individuals advancing their careers and businesses developing their teams. According to the school's student surveys, TISOH posted a 96% satisfaction rate with faculty and a 95% satisfaction rate with student services, figures the school points to as proof of its commitment to rigorous, industry-ready curricula.

"Twenty years in, our focus is still the same as it was on day one — building curricula that meet the real, evolving needs of the hospitality industry," said Timothy Lam of TISOH. "Those satisfaction numbers tell us our students and business partners feel that commitment in the classroom."

TISOH's work was recently recognized by the Consumer Ratings Institute, which named the school the recipient of the Educator Performance Award for Las Vegas, Nevada.

"Reaching this milestone year and earning this recognition at the same time feels especially meaningful," Lam added. "We're going to keep preparing the next generation of hospitality professionals for success."

TISOH continues to offer diploma, certificate, and professional development programs to individuals and businesses throughout the Las Vegas hospitality industry.
