SEOUL, SEOUL, SOUTH KOREA, September 15, 2026 / EINPresswire.com/ -- BPMG Inc. (CEO Ji-Hoon Cha), a blockchain and AI company, today announced the release of a free Steam demo for the PC version of its cooking simulation game Cooking Adventure.

Cooking Adventure is a fast-paced cooking simulation game in which players prepare dishes, manage orders and serve customers in restaurants inspired by cuisines from around the world. The mobile version has recorded 33 million downloads worldwide and is available as My Little Chef in South Korea and Cooking Adventure in international markets.

The demo features 20 stages, with 10 each in Grill House and Sushi House, giving players a preview of two restaurant themes and their distinct cooking challenges.

While retaining the mobile version’s core gameplay, the Steam edition features controls and pacing adapted for mouse and keyboard.

Players can download the demo for free and add Cooking Adventure to their wishlists on the game’s Steam page.

The full game is scheduled for release in November 2026 and will feature 12 restaurants and 540 stages, along with cooking competitions and score-based rankings.

BPMG plans to collect player feedback through the demo ahead of the full release. The company will also release promotional videos and collaborate with streamers to introduce the game to a broader PC gaming audience.
