Sky Eye Network Member OmegaSkies Aerial Services Expands Central Texas Operations Into Commercial Construction Sector

Former executive Ken Johnson uses Sky Eye Network to grow regional drone operations and pursue recurring enterprise contracts.

KINGWOOD, TX, UNITED STATES, September 14, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Former corporate executive Ken Johnson leverages Sky Eye Network's operational ecosystem to scale regional drone operations and capture recurring enterprise contracts.

Sky Eye Network, a national development network for commercial drone entrepreneurs, today highlighted the strategic regional expansion of member company OmegaSkies Aerial Services across Central Texas. Founded by former Executive Vice President of Operations Ken Johnson, OmegaSkies is accelerating its operational focus toward recurring, project-based construction site monitoring, technical inspections, and high-value commercial media production.

Since entering the commercial drone sector, OmegaSkies has established a strong operational foundation in residential and commercial real estate media, technical aerial mapping, and specialized brand visual assets. The company's recent project roster includes high-profile commercial clients across diverse industries:

Pantalones Tequila: High-impact commercial brand video production and visual media.

Christian Brothers Automotive: Facility branding and commercial visual marketing assets.

Go Kleen Power Washing: Dynamic promotional media for regional commercial operations.

Following consistent five-star client ratings and ongoing project referrals, OmegaSkies is prioritizing multi-phase construction site monitoring as its primary growth vector to secure another predictable, long-term revenue stream.

The company's rapid scaling reflects the strategic implementation of Sky Eye Network's business system. After attending Sky Eye Network's Drone Command Live program in September 2025, Ken integrated the organization's business infrastructure to transition his executive leadership experience into commercial drone enterprise ownership.

Sky Eye Network equips independent operators with direct platform control and operational growth through dedicated live support sessions:

CRM & Website Management (Weekly): Live Q&A and walkthroughs focused on navigating the CRM and updating your Sky Eye Network-provided website directly, ensuring complete control over site content without tech barriers.

Commercial Strategy & Operations (Weekly): Dedicated coaching on pricing, commercial pitching, market positioning, equipment selection, field troubleshooting, and acquisition tactics.

"Sky Eye Network opened my eyes to new possibilities and helped me translate my executive background into building a high-growth business," said Ken Johnson, Founder of OmegaSkies Aerial Services. "A fundamental key to success in this industry is mastering the language of enterprise clients and communicating value with conviction. The structure provided by Sky Eye Network was instrumental in making that transition seamless."

Supported by active membership in three Central Texas Chambers of Commerce, Ken is utilizing local business networks to drive enterprise engagement. Moving forward, OmegaSkies will maintain its foundational real estate and branding portfolio while expanding its technical footprint in construction progression, structural inspections, and spatial mapping across the region.
