This informal event is open to anyone and everyone to stop in and enjoy some breakfast goodies, a cup of Joe and walk around the show room.

"We've noticed that many of our customers are surprised by the size of the showroom and the quality of the displays that are featured and would like some time to just browse the area on their own in a relaxed and informal atmosphere. As a result, we started 'Cup of Joe'. Although the showroom is always open for customers to stop in and take a look, there's something about the low-key atmosphere at these Cup of Joe events that puts people at ease," noted Carole Dale, President, Skyline Suncoast Displays & Graphics, Inc. The Cup of Joe event is open to more than just current Suncoast customers. Anyone who wants to learn more about trade show booth rental in Tampa, exhibit design or the exhibiting process in general is welcome to attend the event.

"Cup of Joe is a great way for anyone who is new to exhibiting to learn more about the entire process. It's an easy way to start to get your head around the different types of exhibits that are available and how they might fit your needs and we always have staff on hand at the Cup of Joe events to answer questions," explained Dale.

Suncoast's showroom features some of their newest trade show displays in Tampa including the Envoy and Picture Cube systems, new lighting features and examples of how to expand existing exhibits from 10' x 10' to 10' x 20' or 20' x 20'. Visitors can also get a glimpse at the company's many banner stands and pop-up displays. Suncoast is currently featuring many different options for monitors and digital displays in response to the tremendous increase in the digital trend. The company foresees that trend continuing to increase in 2013.
