Roadway Moving Expands New York Footprint with New 117,000-Square-Foot Long Island City Facility

NEW YORK, NY, UNITED STATES, September 18, 2026 / EINPresswire.com/ -- New state-of-the-art facility strengthens Roadway Moving's Northeast infrastructure as the company continues to scale its moving and storage operations nationwide

Roadway Moving, the NYC premium mover expands its Northeast footprint with a new 117,000-square-foot facility in Long Island City, Queens.

Roadway Moving, one of the nation's leading premium moving companies, today announced the expansion of its New York City footprint with a new 117,000-square-foot facility in Long Island City, Queens, complemented by a 50,000-square-foot parking lot. The investment expands the company's operational capacity in its home market and strengthens its broader Northeast infrastructure.

Located at Innovo Property Group's newly completed Review Avenue Complex at 28-90 Review Avenue, the facility expands Roadway Moving's moving and storage capabilities in New York City. The newly constructed, Class A facility features direct drive-up access, loading on every floor, truck courts, and flexible industrial space.

The expansion comes amid significant growth: what began as a New York City startup in 2008 has grown into a national moving and storage company completing more than 36,000 moves annually, operating a fleet of more than 300 vehicles, and employing more than 800 people nationwide.

"New York is where Roadway started, and it remains at the center of who we are as a company," said Ross Sapir, Founder and CEO of Roadway Moving. "This new facility represents the next stage of our growth. We've always believed the quality of our infrastructure should match the quality of service we provide our customers. This is a brand-new, state-of-the-art facility that gives our teams the environment and capabilities they need to operate at the highest level. As we continue to expand, we're making deliberate investments in the infrastructure, people and technology that allow us to scale without compromising the Roadway experience."

The new facility adds storage capacity for Roadway Moving's New York moving and storage operations, long-distance relocations, and commercial projects.

Roadway Moving's broader footprint includes New York, New Jersey, Los Angeles, the San Francisco Bay Area, Miami, Fort Lauderdale, Chicago, Dallas, Denver, Atlanta, Seattle, and Tampa. Atlanta and Seattle currently support long-distance moves only, while the other listed markets support both local and long-distance moves.

Roadway Moving operates around a hospitality-first philosophy — as founder Ross Sapir often describes it, a hospitality company that happens to be in the moving industry. That mindset shapes the customer experience, from professionally trained movers and dedicated move coordinators to proprietary technology, premium packing materials, secure storage, and a modern fleet. The company's technology streamlines communication, inventory management, scheduling, and move updates for a more organized, transparent experience from first contact through completion.

Roadway Moving is the Official Moving & Storage Partner of the New York Yankees and Official Moving Company of the Chicago Bulls. The company is a three-time ConsumerAffairs Buyers Choice Award recipient in 2026 and an A+ Accredited Business with the Better Business Bureau.
