Tax Guardian Listed on Microsoft Commercial Marketplace, Expanding Access to IRS-Focused Identity Protection

Microsoft Listing provides a new way to discover and evaluate Tax Guardian's IRS-focused identity protection suite.

Tax Guardian - America's First Tax Identity Protection Suite

OKLAHOMA CITY, OK, UNITED STATES, September 22, 2026 / EINPresswire.com/ -- Tax Guardian Software Solutions, a provider of IRS-focused tax identity protection, announced that its solution is now listed on the Microsoft Commercial Marketplace as a Microsoft Partner offering with Co-sell opportunities.

The listing gives organizations another channel to discover and evaluate Tax Guardian's suite, which monitors IRS activity rather than traditional credit reports. Tax Guardian provides daily IRS transcript monitoring, AI-powered threat detection, and alerts when suspicious activity may involve a taxpayer's Social Security number.

Tax identity theft can remain undetected until a taxpayer's return is rejected, a refund is delayed, or unexpected activity appears in IRS records. Traditional identity protection services may monitor credit reports, financial accounts, data breaches, and the dark web, but they may not detect activity in IRS records.

"Tax identity theft requires a different monitoring approach because the warning signs may appear in IRS activity rather than on a credit report," said Travis Watkins, CEO of Tax Guardian. "Our Microsoft Marketplace presence provides another way to learn about Tax Guardian and evaluate whether IRS-focused monitoring can complement their existing identity protection, employee benefits, or customer protection programs."

Protecting an Overlooked Area of Identity Risk

Microsoft Commercial Marketplace is a catalog where organizations can discover solutions from Microsoft and independent software publishers. The listing gives technology leaders, benefits teams, financial institutions, and other buyers a structured place to review Tax Guardian and determine whether it fits their needs.

Tax Guardian focuses specifically on identifying suspicious activity associated with a taxpayer's IRS records. Depending on the selected plan, the service may provide:
• Daily IRS transcript monitoring
• AI-powered threat detection
• Alerts through text or email
• Detection of potentially fraudulent returns and stolen refunds
• W-2 and 1099 income mismatch alerts
• Identity restoration support
• Plan-dependent refund replacement protection
• Audit defense support on eligible plans

Tax Guardian does not claim to prevent tax identity theft. Its role is to provide visibility into IRS activity, help users identify potential issues sooner, deliver alerts when suspicious activity is detected, and provide recovery support when qualifying issues arise.

The Microsoft Commercial Marketplace listing serves as a product discovery and evaluation resource. Organizations should review the current listing and confirm pricing, licensing, availability, security documentation, purchasing terms, and support responsibilities directly with Tax Guardian.

Supporting Employers, Benefits Leaders, and Partners

For employers and benefits leaders, Tax Guardian addresses a financial and identity risk many employees may not understand until they are affected. Tax identity theft can result in delayed refunds, incorrect income attributed to a taxpayer, administrative burdens, time spent resolving IRS records, and financial stress.

Tax Guardian can complement existing identity protection and benefits programs by monitoring an area that may fall outside the scope of traditional credit and financial account monitoring. Employers can evaluate it as an employee benefit, while benefits platforms can add it to broader financial wellness and identity protection offerings.

Financial institutions, payroll providers, tax professionals, identity protection providers, and other organizations may also consider Tax Guardian for customer, member, partner, referral, or co-branded protection programs. Partnership arrangements, technical requirements, commercial terms, and implementation details are available directly from Tax Guardian.

Organizations interested in learning more can visit the Tax Guardian listing on Microsoft Commercial Marketplace or visit www.taxguardian.com for additional information about its IRS-focused monitoring and protection services.

About Tax Guardian

Tax Guardian is America's first tax identity protection suite, built to detect and resolve identity theft at the point where it can do lasting damage: a taxpayer's IRS records. The company monitors IRS transcripts and earnings history for wage, income, and filing activity that may signal a stolen Social Security number and supports individuals, employers, and partners through detection and remediation.
Tax Guardian is a private identity protection service and is not affiliated with or operated by the Internal Revenue Service or Microsoft. Services, coverage, eligibility, and limitations vary by plan.
