

Clear shift towards ISO22301 qualifications, say IT Governance

/EINPresswire.com/ IT Governance, the business continuity management and compliance experts, have reported an increase on 2012 for bookings onto their ISO22301 Training Courses.

Alan Calder, CEO of IT Governance, says, "Since the release of the ISO22301 BCMS Requirements in 2012 interest in the standard has gradually built-up. We now get regular bookings on our ISO22301 foundation and advanced level training courses. Our attendees are mainly professionals looking to implement a more formal business continuity management system (BCMS) and integrate it with other existing management systems. Even if their organisation is not pursuing ISO22301 certification now, they'll be ready for it if they decide to go ahead.

"Attending our ISO22301 BCM courses will save attendees hours of time poring over the standards, guidance material and info on the web. The quality of our course materials is very high and the information is delivered in an interactive, enjoyable and concise manner.

"Every organisation should have someone internally who knows what is to be done in case of an unforeseen event. We believe that ISO22301 qualifications will be increasingly more important in future." concludes Calder.

IT Governance has a comprehensive ISO22301 Training Programme which offers delegates the opportunity to attain an industry standard qualification. It consists of the following courses which are designed to meet the level of competence requirements at any stage of the project:

- ISO22301 Certified BCMS Foundation
- ISO22301 Certified BCMS Lead Implementer
- ISO22301 Certified BCMS Lead Auditor

Places on any of the courses can be booked online at www.itgovernance.co.uk/shop/c-278-training-courses.aspx.
