

Trust Parcel2Go to handle your Valentine's Day surprise

/EINPresswire.com/ UK (submitpressrelease123.com - press release) Online parcel delivery specialist Parcel2Go has reminded people to stay in their partner's good books by organising a Valentine's Day gift in plenty of time.

On February 14, millions around the world will receive special presents and messages of love, and the Bolton-based firm will be playing its part in bringing people together, even when they can't physically manage it.

"It's simply not always possible for couples to spend Valentine's Day together, but that doesn't mean they can't stay in touch on the day itself," said Richard Mercer, marketing director at Parcel2Go. "This is where Parcel2Go can step in, to make sure gifts are delivered on the day, in perfect condition."

A wide range of delivery options are available through Parcel2Go's site, including express parcel services to countries around the world from South Africa to Spain. Renowned courier companies including FedEx, Parcelforce, City Link and Yodel all offer services through Parcel2Go's site, all at affordable prices.

New customers who aren't used to sending parcels within the UK, or to destinations abroad, and want some advice on how to get a potentially fragile Valentine's gift to their partner are also in luck. A video guide detailing how to securely pack goods is available to view now through Parcel2Go's YouTube channel.

Richard added: "It doesn't make a difference if your partner is in the UK, or in one of the scores of other countries around the world that our courier partners deliver to, sending a Valentine's Day surprise over to them is simple and straightforward using the internet. Our courier services are also great value for money, which means you'll be able to put that cash towards paying for an extra special present!"

A quick quote tool located on the Parcel2Go homepage is available for all customers to use, and can provide fast and efficient way of pricing up a domestic or cheap international shipping delivery.
