

Dabs introduces new range of self-build bundles, now with Corsair Memory!

/EINPresswire.com/ UK (Submitpressrelease123.com - press release) Dabs understands that if people are new to PC-building the process can be very daunting, which is why over the last two years they have offered its customers a range of ASUS self-build bundles.

The range – which has just been refreshed – sees the online electronics retailer team up with Corsair Memory to provide consumers with an unmissable product offering now featuring their award winning memory. The range of self-build PC bundles meet a variety of different requirements that cater to a wide-range of customers whether people prefer Intel or AMD processors, with basic or high performance in mind.

And, what's more, each bundle type has been performance-tested by the experts at Dabs, meaning consumers can be 100 per cent confident in the equipment they are buying, safe in the knowledge it is compatible and has been put through its paces and won't let them down.

All of the motherboard bundles from at Dabs.com come with a motherboard, processor and memory. There are then four options to choose from – value, performance, ultimate and gamer – each of which is tailored towards the user's more specific requirements.

Duncan Rutherford, Product Manager at Dabs, said: "Building a PC isn't easy – just one look inside a computer is enough to put a lot of people off the idea! The process though is hugely rewarding and we here at Dabs want to give our customers the best possible start to their self-build project, which is why we've teamed up with Corsair Memory to make our ASUS self-build bundles the best-buy they have ever been."

"We're always trying to go the extra mile for our customers, which is why we compatibility check and performance test every model. If we're happy, you'll be happy too!"

Dabs is a one-stop shop when it comes to electronics, offering everything from computing and networking equipment, to TV and home entertainment products, ultrabooks, office equipment, Barebone PCs and GPS navigation systems. Everything is available to purchase online from dabs.com.
