Rooter Man Plumbing Establishes Top-Rated Drain Cleaning in Charleston With 5.0-Star Rating and 600+ Customer Reviews

Rooter Man Plumbing reaches a 5.0-star Google rating with 600+ reviews, reinforcing top-rated drain cleaning in Charleston, SC.

CHARLESTON, SC, UNITED STATES, September 28, 2026 / EINPresswire.com/ -- Top-rated drain cleaning in Charleston has been established by West Ashley's locally owned and operated Rooter Man Plumbing. They recently reached a 5.0-star customer rating on google with more than 600 reviews, giving homeowners and property owners a clear, public measure of customer feedback when they are choosing a plumber for slow, clogged or recurring drain problems.

Rooter Man Plumbing specializes in professional drain cleaning and clogged drains throughout the Greater Charleston area. They have been in operation since 2006 making this their 21st year servicing the Lowcountry. A 5.0-star rating across 600+ reviews reflects both the volume of customer feedback and its consistency, and residents can read that feedback before they call.

For most homeowners drain problems rarely arrive at a convenient time. A slow-draining kitchen sink, a bathroom fixture that backs up or a blockage that keeps returning can disrupt the most frequently used parts of a home or property. Many people try temporary fixes first, but a clog that comes back often points to an underlying cause that a quick DIY measure does not address.

Rooter Man Plumbing provides professional drain cleaning in Charleston for homeowners and property managers who are dealing with slow, clogged or recurring drain problems. Their experienced team knows that every drain problem is different, a professional approach starts with understanding what is happening inside the line rather than treating every clog the same way.

Customers looking for drain cleaning services or clogged drain cleaning in Charleston can find details about each service on the company's website. Those pages are a starting point for residents who want to learn more about how Rooter Man Plumbing handles common drain problems as well as other plumbing issues.

With hundreds of companies providing plumbing services throughout the Charleston area, sorting through the available options can be a challenge, particularly when a plumbing problem requires prompt attention. Customer reviews offer one of the quickest ways for homeowners, property owners and businesses to learn about the experiences of people who have already used a company's services. A substantial body of customer feedback can provide additional context when comparing local plumbing providers, especially for services such as drain cleaning, where the quality, responsiveness and professionalism of the service can directly affect a property's day-to-day operations.

A 5.0-star Google rating becomes particularly meaningful when it is supported by a substantial volume of customer feedback. Rather than reflecting the experience of only a handful of customers, Rooter Man Plumbing's rating represents the feedback of more than 600 customers who have publicly reviewed the company's services on Google.

That distinction can be especially relevant when selecting a plumbing service in Charleston. Drain and plumbing problems are often unexpected, and service decisions may need to be made quickly. For homeowners, a slow drain or recurring clog can be an early indication of a larger problem. For restaurants, hospitality businesses, offices, rental properties and other commercial operations, a drainage issue can disrupt employees, customers and normal business operations.

Public reviews give Charleston customers an opportunity to consider the experiences of previous customers before making a service decision. More than 600 reviews provide a broad sample of customer experiences, while the 5.0-star rating reflects the overall rating those customers have given Rooter Man Plumbing on Google.

The rating itself is not an official industry ranking, certification or award, nor does it guarantee the outcome of any individual service call. It is a reflection of customer feedback published on Google and provides Charleston-area homeowners and businesses with an additional source of information when comparing local plumbing providers.
