

BrightLife Direct Introduces 2013 Buyer's Guide for Compression Hosiery

/EINPresswire.com/ Compression garment distributor's new catalog features nearly 100 pages of product information for a variety of brands.

BrightLife Direct, a medical compression garment and support wear distributor, has released its 2013 compression hosiery Buyer's Guide. The catalog provides an informative overview of the different products that are available, as well as color, sizing and pricing guides.

Items in the new Buyer's Guide include quality compression stockings, leg sleeves, diabetic socks and lymphedema armsleeves from quality brands such as Sigvaris, Mediven, Jobst and Farrow Medical. When ordered through BrightLife Direct, these items are priced at least 20 percent below all manufacturers' suggested retail price and typically below pharmacy rates.

The Buyer's Guide is delivered free by request to doctors' offices, physical therapists, hospitals and wound centers. These healthcare providers then pass on the catalog to their patients in need of therapeutic support socks, lymphedema sleeves and other compression garments.

"We print and distribute 100,000 copies each year. It's not only an opportunity for manufacturer's to advertise their products, but it's a source of reliable information for customers to learn more about the compression garments they need to improve their medical symptoms," said Kip Bright, president of BrightLife Direct.

Customers and healthcare providers can order items shown in the 2013 Buyer's Guide three ways: by mail on a printed form from the catalog, online or via telephone. All items in the guide can be shipped the same day they are ordered, including sizes and styles that are considered difficult to find.

Healthcare providers can request Buyer's Guides by calling BrightLife Direct at 1-877-545-8585.
