Lavish Event Rentals Brings Back its Annual Lavish Soirée in Miami Design District

The evening brought South Florida's event and wedding community together to explore Lavish's collections through interactive installations and event concepts.

MIAMI, FL, UNITED STATES, September 30, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Lavish Event Rentals, Florida's premier luxury event furnishings and décor brand, brought back its annual Lavish Soirée on Sept. 9th at the Paradise Plaza in Miami Design District. The evening brought together South Florida's top event and wedding professionals, designers, hospitality leaders and creative partners for an immersive showcase of Lavish's newest collections.

Rather than simply displaying individual pieces, Lavish's newest collections were brought to life through a series of thoughtfully curated, sensory-driven installations inspired by the aesthetic of an art gallery. Set against all-white backdrops, each installation was designed to showcase the versatility of Lavish's offerings, encouraging guests to interact with the designs and experience its furnishings, tabletop pieces and décor as part of fully realized event concepts.

"We decided to go beyond a traditional showroom setting this year so guests could experience what's possible when you take a piece of our furniture or décor and build an entire environment around it," said Raul Rodriguez, Founder of Lavish Event Rentals. "Every detail was designed to engage the senses and show how our collections can completely transform a space, and there's something really exciting about sharing what we've created with the Miami event community."

Among the evening's standout displays was a striking blue tablescape set against a pool-inspired backdrop, complete with cascading water, blue florals and Lavish's statement pieces, including Hermès tableware and Christofle silverware. Additional installations offered entirely different takes on event design, including an intimate candlelit dinner setting filled with Baccarat crystal plates and glassware, candles and elegant seating and a monochromatic yellow display featuring plush, textured rugs, greenery and statement lamps.

Set against the Miami Design District at sunset, the Soirée created an inviting setting for guests to connect and mingle with members of South Florida's event community while taking in the installations. The evening featured drinks, light bites and a cookies and ice cream station for dessert. The Soirée was sponsored by Miami Design District, H&C Collective, Ines Naftali, Ketal One Vodka, Event Factor, Inedit and I.A.P.

"This was our 11th Soirée, so it's really special to be back after three years," said Rodriguez. "I'm especially proud of the creativity, craftsmanship and innovation my team brought to every detail of the event. Being able to share that with everyone in a way they could actually experience made coming back to the Miami event community that much more meaningful."

Lavish is one of the few event rental companies in the United States with in-house fabrication capabilities, providing event professionals with a distinct level of creative control while ensuring streamlined production from concept to execution. Backed by its 50,000-square-foot warehouse of luxury furnishings and décor, Lavish offers Pantone-matched finishes, exclusive patterns and brand-specific detailing to bring timeless style and refined elegance to any event.

Lavish's signature designs have defined high-profile events for luxury brands such as Aston Martin, Louis Vuitton and Tiffany & Co. since 2010. Earlier this year, Lavish expanded its reach with the opening of a 2,500-square-foot showroom in Winter Park, bringing its luxury event furnishings and designer tableware to Central Florida's growing event and wedding community.

Lavish Event Rentals was born out of 2R Creative, the Miami-based experiential design and production firm founded by Rodriguez in 2000. From Art Basel installations to immersive brand moments for global leaders including Gucci, American Express and Moët & Chandon, 2R Creative has produced South Florida's most visually iconic events. Lavish was realized as an extension of the firm's creative vision dedicated exclusively to luxury event rentals.
