Some business moguls are beginning to believe the notion that business websites are no longer the premier platform for companies as they once were. The fascination of a beautiful constructed website has diminished as fast has coined phrases are being stamped.

Now apps or applications are now the "face" that keeps on clicking; businesses have hired designed experts to add the app feature to their business look. Close to a million and counting, this has become the number of applications to date that have stormed the front pages of many of the already busy Smart Phones and websites.

Lawyers On The Run, LLC, an internet-based company out of Coral Springs, Florida is reaping all of the benefits that apps offer small businesses. Since LOTR markets small business services like local Chiropractors and Personal Injury Law, they are able to promote unique apps on their own company website and promote their own service via some of the more popular cellular devices.

"We really want to provide consumers with a valuable gateway that features only the best local business services in their area. Lawyers On The Run mobile smart phone app features the best Chiropractors and Personal injury lawyer in the US," said Ken Oram VP Global Sales.

"Do you qualify to be the exclusive chiropractor listed on our Smart Phone and website," asks Oram?

Their website and mobile app provides services throughout America and is looking for the very best to add to their growing network.
