For 15-17 year olds who want to jet off further afield, Smaller Earth is offering the Inspiring Futures program, where over two weeks they get to gain an understanding of a completely different culture in South Africa, helping developing communities to grow. After an initial thorough orientation, they'll head off to begin work nurturing the youths of the community. Working with disadvantaged and orphaned children all under the age of eight, they'll play an important part of teaching programs such as English and Maths or arts including music and creative arts.

In return, participants learn about the local people and their culture, hopefully sparking their enthusiasm to see and learn more year on year with Smaller Earth. This is a fantastic introduction to an outreach program abroad, and one we're sure they'll love!

For people interested in a full twelve month program (or more!), Smaller Earth have 12-24 month au pair programs in the USA. All that is needed is a driving licence, but everything else will be arranged for participants by Smaller Earths expert team. SO that includes flights, a host family, visa arrangement, the lot. Participants can relax, and concentrate on enjoying the experience from the offset!

Primarily, Au Pairs responsibilities will consist of caring for the children, including driving them to and from school. The children will be captivated by a British accent and participants find simple stories of home life will have them enchanted as they learn about the British culture.

These are just a taster of the many varied programs Smaller Earth can offer. If people have a particular country they'd like to visit, or they wish to work or volunteer with animals for example, take a look on the Smaller Earth website to find the most suitable programs.
