

Rich Napoli, COO of OFS, Heads to Washington; Tax Reform Workforce Development Among Top Priorities

/EINPresswire.com/ Rich Napoli joined CompTIA and TechVoice to advocate for IT sector priorities on Capitol Hill during the organizations' trip to Washington. Mr. Napoli met with Robert E. Andrews, Jon Runyan, Rush Holt, Chris Smith, & the assistants for Robert Menendez & Frank Lautenberg.

Rich Napoli, COO from OFS, joined CompTIA and TechVoice to advocate for IT sector priorities on Capitol Hill during the organizations' annual fly-in to Washington. CompTIA and the Technology Councils of North America, work to provide a voice for tech companies on Capitol Hill.

As a CompTIA member/TechVoice Partner, Mr. Napoli met with Robert E. Andrews (New Jersey 1st), Jon Runyan (New Jersey 3rd), Rush Holt (New Jersey 12th), Chris Smith (New Jersey 4th), and the legislative assistants for Robert Menendez and Frank Lautenberg.

This is the second year that Rich Napoli participated in the TechVoice Fly-in.

"As the IT sector grapples with the implementation of 2013 Congressional priorities, CompTIA will continue to facilitate open discourse between legislatures and small and midsize IT businesses," said Todd Thibodeaux, president and CEO of CompTIA. "Through a balanced, multi-policy approach that incorporates the needs of hiring businesses, Congress can boost economic growth nationwide."

The Fly-In began on Feb.13 and ran through February 14, 2013. For more information on CompTIA's advocacy efforts, visit www.TechVoice.org.
