

Portfolio Prophet Review Unveils Bill Poulos New ETF Trade Alert Software

/EINPresswire.com/ A Portfolio Prophet Review unveils that Bill and Greg Poulos at Profits Run, Inc. have just released their new revamped web-based login ETF trade alert software (exchange traded funds). PortfolioProphet is a trading course and software to benefit investors who are interested in trading ETFs. The creative geniuses behind this product spent six months researching, developing and testing the software and course before it became fit to the public.

Why should investors believe in Portfolio Prophet? Basically, the course and software is aimed at making investors comfortable with including ETFs in their investment options. The product is also geared towards guiding them towards the right path so that they can benefit from the profit potential that exists in the market. Of course, this includes methods for reducing risk and mapping out their long-term goals.

The useful methods taught by the Portfolio Prophet review can be learned by investors in their own homes. It is the software that contains the important ETF trading secret that can lead to bigger profits if the methods are used the right way. Additionally, the product provides a feature that allows a bar-by-bar trade analysis so that investors can see how easy it is to trade ETFs with the use of the method. Furthermore, Portfolio Prophet features the proprietary formula called the "Fast Filter Technique". This formula filters the ETFs that are not good for investors' portfolios decreasing trading risk loss.

The investors who have used Portfolio Prophet to trade ETFs can attest to its effectiveness. This can be surmised through the reviews that abound about this useful software and trading course. One of the common denominators of their reviews is about how this product predicts the most profitable ETF markets so that investors can avoid another market crash that will surely come in the future.

In conclusion, Portfolio Prophet is a useful tool even for traders and investors who want to branch out to ETF trading. The way it predicts the emerging mini-trends can give investors the extra push to improve their chances for success.
