Alan Calder, CEO of IT Governance, says, "Our ISO27001 Certified ISMS Internal Auditor course has been running for a couple of years now and we have helped many professionals carry out a successful internal audit.

"Current feedback from delegates suggests that they value the course's practical focus. It provides hints and tips on ways to approach auditing both from an auditor's perspective and that of an auditee.

"A key part of the job of Internal Auditors is to support Lead Auditors. Therefore a course like this is a good career progression both for general staff who want to progress toward audit and compliance, and also an additional qualification for all internal auditors with responsibilities for other management systems and frameworks."

Designed on best practice principles and based on the auditing standard, ISO 19011:2002, this course offers guidelines for information security management systems auditing.

One recent delegate commented "The course was very clear and explained both the outline of ISO27001 and the main areas to consider when developing an internal audit procedure."

Calder adds, "Organisations must remember that auditing is not only the means to achieving compliance, but is also a management tool designed to deliver continual improvements. Every organisation that has implemented an information security management system needs internal auditors."

Bookings on the ISO27001 Internal Auditor course can be made immediately online at www.itgovernance.co.uk/shop/p-711.aspx.
