IT Governance announces special ISO22301 Implementation Toolkit offer during Business Continuity Awareness Week

/EINPresswire.com/ IT Governance, the global business continuity management and ISO22301-compliance leader, have today launched a special ISO22301 Business Continuity Management System (BCMS) Implementation Toolkit offer to coincide with the Business Continuity Awareness Week, 18th to 22nd March 2013.

All customers who order the ISO22301 BCMS Implementation Toolkit by the end of March 2013 will receive a free copy of the newly published ISO22301- A Pocket Guide. Find out more at www.itgovernance.co.uk/shop/p-1039.aspx.

Alan Calder, CEO of IT Governance says: "In the current economic climate and growing cyber security challenges, it is more important than ever to raise awareness of business continuity. Statistics show that the majority of organisations without a business continuity plan are unlikely to survive a major business incident. It is also essential that business continuity plans are aligned to international best practice."

ISO22301 is the international standard for business continuity management and replaced the British Standard BS25999-2 in May 2012. It sets out the requirements for a BCMS and is based on the 'Plan-Do-Check-Act' model as found in other management system standards.

The ISO22301 BCMS Implementation Toolkit has been designed to help organisations implement the standard effectively and efficiently without the need to reinvent the wheel. It contains document templates and guidance that enable business continuity professionals to quickly and efficiently produce their own tailored versions of all these essential documents.

For March 2013 only, the toolkit comes with a free copy of the ISO22301- A Pocket Guide, written by business continuity expert Tony Drewitt. Since its launch in March 2013, the pocket guide has become a best-seller.

The ISO22301 BCMS Implementation Toolkit can be immediately ordered online at www.itgovernance.co.uk/shop/p-1039.aspx.
