The American Urological Association held its annual meeting on May 4- May 8, 2013 in San Diego, Calif. Erectile Doctor was pleased to exhibit at this event alongside Xion Medical, a company that specializes in products for the management of sexual health and wellness. The AUA Annual Meeting has become a staple event for urology professionals worldwide, and continues to offer the most cutting-edge research for all attendees.

Erectile Doctor was honored to attend and exhibit at such a monumental event for the urology field. Attendees included a wide variety of healthcare professionals, and those who visited the Erectile Doctor booth saw the value of the site for the expansion of their practice.

ErectileDoctor.com is an innovative platform that targets one of the most ubiquitous male health issues: erectile dysfunction. The site works as a confidential intermediary between patient and physician, helping those with the disorder receive treatment in a discreet, safe manner. However, the site is just as beneficial for physicians, as it helps them expand their patient base locally.

Erectile Doctor received positive feedback at the AUA Annual Meeting from physicians and healthcare professionals from around the globe. Free membership, exclusive discounts on Xion products and the most up-to-date research on erectile dysfunction proved only small bonuses when physicians learned more about the site; the most compelling aspect of ErectileDoctor.com is the ability for physicians to join the most technologically advanced network of professionals specifically dedicated to eliminating the statistics associated with erectile dysfunction:

"The AUA Annual Meeting always offers the most cutting-edge research and solutions in urology, and Erectile Doctor is a perfect example of this. Merging technology and medicine, ErectileDoctor.com has created a safe way for men to get help discreetly with local doctors, becoming a great resource for national and international physicians and patients alike," said Dr. Frank Costa, Clinical Associate Professor of Urology and Director at the Urology Institute of Pittsburgh.

About Erectile Doctor

Erectile Doctor is the first website of its kind to address and attend to erectile dysfunction. This online portal provides men suffering from ED with the ability to receive treatment in a discreet manor from specialized doctors across the United States. Erectile Doctor is also a platform for physicians to become part of the first online directory devoted to treating ED while expanding their patient base.
