

Olympia Moving & Storage Announces Corporate Sponsorship of Special Olympics Massachusetts

/EINPresswire.com/ Commits to year-round donations of resources and money to help athletes with intellectual disabilities

Olympia Moving & Storage, a premier Boston area relocation company, is now the official moving company of Special Olympics Massachusetts. The corporate sponsorship includes employee volunteerism, corporate fundraising, along with donations of trucks and equipment for Special Olympics events throughout the year.

Olympia will formally kickoff the partnership on June 7th for Special Olympics Massachusetts' Summer Games in Boston. Over the course of three days, Olympia teams will help transfer equipment to and from the Harvard University Athletic Complex for the games. In addition, Olympia employees will help greet over 2,400 arriving athletes and assist them into their dorms at Boston University.

"We are excited to have an opportunity to give back to the communities in which we work and live," said Michael Gilmartin, founder and CEO of Olympia Moving. "Special Olympics does amazing work and the athletes are inspirational. I am proud to be associated with this organization, and of the employees from our company who are volunteering their time."

In addition to the company's contributions, Olympia is also encouraging clients to get involved, by offering matching donations made to Special Olympics Massachusetts.

"With year-round fundraising and sports programming at Special Olympics Massachusetts, having a company like Olympia to help navigate complicated logistics is an invaluable resource," said Mary Beth McMahon, Special Olympics Massachusetts president and CEO. "The commitment Olympia Moving & Storage has made to help support our athletes is truly remarkable."
