

Angel House announces their plan for a new Transitional Housing Program project for graduates...

.. To celebrate the second anniversary.

GAINESVILLE, GEORGIA, June 3, 2013 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Angel House of Georgia is excited to announce our upcoming second year anniversary barbeque to celebrate the progress our residents are making and plans for new transitional housing for residents who have graduated from the program. Official plans will be announced at the barbeque celebrating our second anniversary. This will be held at the Angel House residence on August 17th, 2013 at 1:00 pm.

After seen our graduates who successfully have completed the twelve month program struggle to find affordable housing, we have identified a need for a program that temporarily assist women with housing while they become economically self-sufficient in order to re-enter society. Currently, our graduates complete the program and are confronted with the sad reality that they are unable to afford housing. The lack of education, poor credit history, combined with the low wages earned makes the probability to relapse much higher than average.

According to the statistics published by the center for Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA), women entering rehabilitation programs do not have stable living arrangements. For instance, upon admission to a residential/non-hospital program 54% of women live with a partner or parents, 14.6% live alone, 14% with other family or children, 4.3 with friends and 14.8 from an institutional facility (1999).” Women leave the programs and come back to their prior living arrangements, and many confront a lack of stable housing. Angel House as the only female recovery residential program in Hall County want to address this issue by offering housing at a subsidized cost to assist women to continue focus on their personal recovery and become independent.

Community Support

Addiction is a disease that affects everyone from family and friends, to the entire community. Thus true recovery requires community support and action. If you have the time and resources to assist in helping these women continue a life free from the bonds of active addiction please contact Angel House of Georgia. Lasting recovery is only possible with your help and the assistance of a strong community support system.

About Angel House of Georgia

Angel House was established in May of 2011 and is currently approved through GARR (Georgia Association of Recovery Residences), THOR Directory (Transitional Housing for Offender Re-entry) and a non-profit 501 (c) (3) organization. Angela English established Angel House with the vision of helping women recover from alcohol and drug addiction. After receiving the first resident in June of 2011, Angel House has now proudly graduated 12 women who still continue to have a life free of active addiction.

The mission of Angel House of Georgia is to help women relieve themselves from the devastating burden of addiction and to move toward a happy and productive future. Angel House believes that it takes courage and education to accomplish such a life transformation. The compassionate and experienced staff is here to help every step of the way, with group counseling, life skills, behavior modification and all manners of support for a transition into a positive, healthy life. Angel House believes that every person relieved of drug or alcohol addiction helps to create a stronger, more vibrant community.
