

Hollywood's Brad Wyman Joins Donald Trump's Crowdfunding Site FundAnything.com

Successful Movie Producer and Former Indiegogo Exec Applies His Talents To Help People Fund Anything

NEW YORK, NEW YORK, June 5, 2013 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Bill Zanker, the founder of FundAnything.com announced that film producer Brad Wyman has joined the FundAnything team as Chief Crowdfunding Officer and Head of the Film/Video/Web Division. One of the most prolific and successful independent film makers in Hollywood, Wyman has worked with an impressive A-list of talent including Reese Witherspoon, Matthew McConaughey and Cristina Ricci. His Indie Blockbuster "Monster" earned Charlize Theron an Oscar for Best Actress in 2003.

Now Wyman is taking his considerable storytelling talents to FundAnything, where he will be in charge of developing powerful fundraising projects, and turning good fundraising campaigns into great success stories.

"We are so thrilled to welcome Brad Wyman into the FundAnything fold," said Bill Zanker. "Brad's experience, knowledge and energy will bring out the best in our campaigns and will help people get their campaigns funded. The same magic that he brings to film financing will now help millions of people tell their stories, raise money for their projects, and realize their dreams."

No stranger to crowdfunding, Wyman spent the past year at Indiegogo as the Vertical Lead for Film/Video/Web, helping the niche site establish ties to the film industry, and grow its foundation in fundraising for the arts. In his new role as Chief Crowdfunding Officer at FundAnything.com, Wyman will build and oversee a worldwide sales team concentrating on broadening campaigns in the Music, Community/Non Profit, Gaming, International, Film, Video and Web Divisions.

"One of the things that most excites me about my new position at FundAnything is that unlike other platforms, we are here to help you get funded," said Wyman. "By developing a strong foundation, the right team, and a marketing outreach program that supports our campaign developers, it's a great feeling to know that we are helping people help themselves and change their lives for the better."

At an event in New York on May 8th, Donald Trump marked the launch of the website by contributing seed money to several FundAnything projects as a way of encouraging participation from the general public to get started and make a difference. He is selecting and contributing seed money to FundAnything campaigns on a weekly basis. With Wyman's addition to the Executive team, FundAnything now has offices in Los Angeles, New York City, Budapest, Hungary, and Park City, Utah.
