Find Provincial, National, Private and Free Campgrounds Near you. Enjoy British Columbia's Pristine Wilderness while camping for free at BC Recreation Sites.

KELOWNA, June 19, 2013 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Clayton Kessler outdoor enthusiast and webmaster of TracksAndTrails.ca announced today that his online British Columbia Campground Directory has launched. Finding Free Campsites in addition to all the Provincial Parks, National Parks and Private Campgrounds in British Columbia just became easy to accomplish. The TracksAndTrails Campground Directory will indicate campgrounds on a zoomable Google based map by searching on any geographic based name in BC on the website.

The internet Camping Directory offers a fast and unique experience with its mobile supported website by showing all the campgrounds near any BC city and allowing the tracksandtrails.ca visitor to click a link to get more details including pictures and directions via google maps.

Kessler says the campground directory feature that keeps visitors coming back to his website (currently over 2000 pageviews per day) is the fact that it is the first map based directory to offer the free camping Recreation Site locations in addition to showing all other camping opportunities. He is also adding new camping locations that other directories will never have as he finds unique Crown Land camping locations.

On the TracksAndTrails.ca campground directory you will find over 900 BC Recreation Sites including 600 free campgrounds, 82 National Parks, 1100 Provincial Parks (across Canada) and 425 Privately Owned BC Campgrounds. Rating each campground on the website is easy to do without registration and is encouraged. Highest rated campgrounds will be rewarded with "Trusted Campground" status and will be shown on the map with a gold star.

having providing the camping directory to aid locals and tourists explore BC backcountry, Clayton Kessler answers various camping questions and help folks create unique outdoor experiences to remember. He still keeps a few backcountry secrets to himself but manages to provide a few "gems" of outdoor intelligence such as where a backcountry cabin can be accessed or where the best fishing can be found.
