

South African Lodges Launches New Website

South African Lodges launches a new website to get you experiencing the African continent like never before.

SOUTH AFRICA, July 9, 2013 /EINPresswire.com/ -- In 1994, Disney released a movie that celebrated the life of a loveable lion. The world watched the African palette come to life and more than ever wanted to go to destinations like the one where Rafiki held Simba up to the now ever-recognised Nastimbenya, bababitsie baba!

But consulting your iPad to see where and when you could go wasn't how it happened in 1994. Once you decided what kind of break you were looking for, you would get in your car and drive to your nearest travel agent. This may not have been very near at all and the drive alone could be deserving of a holiday. Once there you would sift through dozens of brochures offering you the biggest, best experiences ever. So you trusted the brochure and hoped for the best from its endorsement.

Things changed when the Internet arrived - and then some! Booking a getaway is no longer the exercise it used to be. The latest to put the beauty of Southern Africa and all its splendor in your grasp is www.south-african-lodges.com. The launch of this new site makes the actual booking of your getaway as exciting as the trip itself. Browsing the wide variety of accommodation and experience options proves that a day's end under the orange African sun or dinner under the brightest stars in the night sky is easier to find than a scandalous news report on Lindsay Lohan.

Explore exquisite accommodation offers from destinations in South Africa, Zambia, Namibia, Zimbabwe, Botswana and Mozambique. Right off the bat, there are special offers on the homepage that could have you finding something that will please both your soul and your wallet. And for those interested in more than just The Big Five, there are featured items and thought-leadership releases under the Travel News tab that share in depth news from the region itself.

If it's something in between the big smoke and a stay over you're looking for, check out the experiences tab. Here you can search for things to do by country and region that gets fresh air into your lungs while adding memories to your mind. From hot air balloon excursions to elephant rides, there's something typically African on your doorstep for you to experience.

With a website that pledges over 500 lodges to choose from, quick and easy quote generation, lowest prices guaranteed, guest reviews and a human being you can actually talk to should you wish to call through, www.south-african-lodges.com is the your site for anything and everything safari!
