

Corboy & Demetrio's Thomas Demetrio Speaks to California Media about Crash of Asiana Flight 214

CHICAGO, IL, July 10, 2013 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Tom Demetrio, founding partner of Corboy & Demetrio, was interviewed live by KABC radio show host Larry Elder about liability in the crash of Asiana Flight 214. Tom has represented plane crash victims and their families for more than 30 years.

Chicago lawyer Thomas A. Demetrio, who has represented victims in nearly every major plane crash case since the 1970s, was interviewed live by KABC radio show host Larry Elder in a segment about plane crash lawsuits on "The Larry Elder Show" on July 8, 2013.

Tom Demetrio, a founding partner of Corboy & Demetrio, said the NTSB is fortunate to have the flight voice recorder, black box, all four pilots and eyewitnesses as it investigates the cause of the Asiana crash. "I think they will be able to determine the core cause much sooner in this case, which is usually up to two years after the crash," Demetrio said.

Tom was also interviewed by WFLD-TV in Chicago for a segment analyzing the safest place to sit on a plane. Tom told FOX that from a structural standpoint, it's not the first class cabin. "So while you may get your drinks and an upgrade on meals, it's historically not the safest place to be," Demetrio said.

Tom Demetrio and his Chicago law firm have represented dozens of survivors of plane crashes and families of those who have died in plane crashes nationwide for more than 30 years.

Some of Corboy & Demetrio's significant plane crash cases include:

- USAir Flight 427, a Boeing 737 aircraft that crashed en route from Chicago to Pittsburgh in 1994, on behalf of a 58-year-old Pennsylvania man. Corboy & Demetrio was lead plaintiff's counsel.
- Crash of United Airlines jet in Sioux City, Iowa. Corboy & Demetrio was lead plaintiff's counsel and represented 38 passengers or their survivors.
