

Wrong Way Driving Accidents and Their Tragic Consequences

Dallas car wreck lawyers discuss wrong way accidents and their tragic consequences.

DALLAS, TX, July 11, 2013 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Although they occur with less frequency than many other types of accidents, wrong way accidents yield very serious consequences for those who become involved in them. Fatalities and very serious injuries are common occurrences in wrong way accidents because head-on collisions often result. According to findings from the Texas Transportation Institute:

- A significant majority of these accidents involve a driver who was under the influence of drugs or alcohol
- These types of crashes occur with more frequency during early morning and non-daylight hours

It can be difficult to overcome the challenges one faces with any type of accident, but the physical and emotional toll taken on those severely injured in wrong-way accidents can be difficult to overcome. Particularly in cases where a wrong-way driver was impaired by alcohol or drugs, knowing that one's injuries or loss of a loved one could have been prevented if a driver chose not to engage in negligent behavior is a harsh reality to face when trying to deal with the aftermath of this type of accident.

The Dallas car wreck attorneys of 1-800-Car-Wreck are available to help victims of car accidents obtain fair compensation from those whose negligence or misconduct led to their injury.
