/EINPresswire.com/ -- Bayfront Westcott House B&B (BWH) invites freelance travel writers nationwide to participate in this exciting collaborative effort. BWH, located on Avenida Menendez in St Augustine FL, was built in 1880 as a private residence for Dr. John Westcott, well-known for his prominent military career, interests in transportation and politics, and research efforts in the cause and cure of yellow fever. He was a land surveyor for the St. Johns Railroad and was a heavy hitter in the development of the Intracoastal Waterway link from St. Johns River to Miami.

The house changed hands a few times over the years and saw its fair share of soirees amongst St. Augustine's elite. In the 1970s, it was converted into a guest house and has been entertaining tourists and travelers ever since! Today, Westcott is a 16-room, full-service B&B. Every room has a private entrance, most with Jacuzzi tub, electric fireplace, and outdoor sitting area.

This St Augustine bed and breakfast is but a short walk from the historic district--breathtaking architecture, historic landmarks; museums, art galleries; quaint, eclectic little shops; dozens of restaurants and street-side cafés; and so much more!

Travel writers encouraged to email their letter of interest to jamie@westcotthouse.com.

BWH invites non-writers to squeeze in that end-of-summer Florida get away. Book a 2-night stay at regular rate Sunday thru Thursday and upon advance request receive complimentary bottle of champagne on arrival and breakfast in bed on first morning. Alternatively, select the Tanks For Traveling Special and receive a $50 Shell Gas Card for the return trip home. The Super Summer

Savings offer has been the most popular this summer, offering a 25% discount on multiple-night midweek stays.
