

Dear President Obama: We Will Give You a Million Dollars if Your Experts Can Prove Our Wisdom Education Proposal Wrong

Either prove us wrong or take action on our wisdom education proposals.

RIDGEFIELD PARK, NJ, USA, August 10, 2013 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Please stop saying that the White House is open for new ideas if you keep ignoring our proposals for bringing real change to America through wisdom/emotional-intelligence/brain education.

Our wisdom experts keep putting wisdom under the microscope and all they find are the attributes of wisdom. By putting each attribute of wisdom under the microscope they find other attributes of wisdom. So wisdom ends up being described by its attributes and each attribute gets described by other attributes. The quest for wisdom keeps going round and round in circles without making wisdom any clearer.

The problem is that our wisdom experts are focused on just one question, 'What is wisdom?' It is the same as asking, 'What is a house?' The answer will be the house consists of rooms for cooking, eating, relaxing, sleeping etc. But the answers to this question, 'What is a house?' will not make one a house owner. The question we need to ask is 'How does one become a house owner?' Then one will have to take steps guided by this question's answers. Similarly we need to ask, 'How do we become wise/wisdom?' Once we ask this question our focus will shift from what is wisdom to how to become wise.

In certain expert circles it is already well known that emotional intelligence is none other than wisdom; which boils down to an emotionally challenged brain is ignorance and an emotionally healthy brain is wisdom. Thus the answer to the question, 'How to become wise/wisdom?' is crystal clear; One becomes wise by making the physical brain emotionally super healthy. From crime to greed, from unhappiness to corruption, to every emotionally challenged behavior; it can all be traced to emotionally challenged brains. All wise behavior can be traced to emotionally healthy brains. Thus wisdom education is brain therapy that creates healthy brains. We already have the means to make sub-normal brains into normal brains; we can use the same means to make the normal brains into super normal brains.

As prevention is better than a cure we can train all parents to be able to raise wise children. For older students and adults we can develop wisdom therapies.

Please ask your own education team and appeal to all those researching wisdom/emotional-intelligence education to shift the research from, 'What is wisdom?' to 'How can we create a wise society on a massive scale?'

Five years ago you personally promised our foundation's president that you will get back to us and that if we had any question, it will be answered later. Please keep your promise. Here is our question:

Would you rather see what is wisdom researched till the ends of time with no clear answers and society continuing to suffer the effects of emotionally challenged brains or will you take action that will change America and the world into a wise civilization?

Also please consider supporting Wisdom Day.
