Nutropical LLC, a provider of all natural health products, announces the launch of a new, health optimizing energy supplement. Packed with antioxidants, vitamins and minerals, and based on borojo, BoroMAX provides all day energy and vitality with no artificial ingredients.

“BoroMAX raises the bar on energy supplements” said Sandra Mitchell of Nutropical, LLC “not only does it provide you with all natural superfruit energy, it also supports your health with antioxidants, vitamins and minerals found only in nature.”

Based on the best-selling borojo capsules, BoroMAX provides the best properties of borojo capsules with the added benefits of guarana and maca to bring unrivalled energy to daily activities or extra power to workouts.

The findings of a Rutgers University study commissioned by Nutropical LLC of Secaucus, NJ reveal to the public what South Americans have known for centuries: the borojo (pronounced bo-ro-ho) fruit promotes a host of health benefits thanks to a newly discovered antioxidant compound. The borojo superfruit also appears to be unique in that it contains only one polyphenol in relatively high concentration which makes it revolutionary in the plant world. The borojo fruit also contains high levels of vitamins, minerals, amino acids and antioxidants, and has been used for centuries as a natural energizer, an appetite suppressant and as a libido booster.

BoroMAX healthy energy supplements based on borojo

Guarana is a well-known South American energizing superfruit, and Maca is a root that increases stamina, fights stress and fatigue, and promotes mental clarity and focus. Combined with borojo, the new supplement will provide long lasting, slow release energy with superior health promoting qualities as well a sense of well-being unmatched in the market today. The vegetarian capsules are made with all natural and plant based ingredients for healthy energy. Nothing artificial is ever used in Nutropical's products.

Nutropical's BoroMAX supplements are now available for order at www.nutropical.com. The company additionally plans to offer women's supplements, men's supplements, and a sports blend. Nutropical currently holds multiple patents-pending for its formulations.

Nutropical LLC is a research-focused health and beauty company committed to providing the highest-quality products made from all-natural ingredients. Nutropical's mission is to identify and make available exotic natural ingredients that can provide superior health and beauty benefits.
