

Comrise to Speak at the 2013 LexisNexis® Risk Solutions HPCC Engineering Summit

The Right Fit: MoneyBall Meets Match.com for Recruiting

HAZLET, NJ, USA, September 6, 2013 /EINPresswire.com/

-- Comrise, a global consulting firm specializing in

Managed IT, Big Data, and Workforce Solutions with offices in the US, Hong Kong and China, is pleased to announce that Robert Bigini, VP of Operations, and Cecilia Jiang, Senior Data Scientist, will be speaking at the 2013 LexisNexis® Risk Solutions HPCC Engineering Summit on the topic of "The Right Fit: Money Ball Meets Match.com for Recruiting" in Delray, Florida on Friday, September 13th.

The 2013 LexisNexis® Risk Solutions HPCC Engineering Summit is held by LexisNexis® to gather the members of the Engineering team who work primarily on or around the core HPCC platform to share the experience and plan for the future. There will be a mixture of presentations, breakout sessions and working sessions.

The talk will focus on Comrise's experience in building an intelligent Right Fit algorithm plug-in and how Comrise utilizes HPCC and R to translate large volumes of complex behavioral data into actionable information. Right Fit can greatly streamline the hiring process and dramatically save recruiting time by prioritizing candidates based upon candidate resumes as well as the company's past hiring history.

"We are excited about the opportunity for our team to present the intelligent Right Fit algorithm at this Summit. It is an honor to be a speaker for this event that aims to gather the members of the engineering team who work primarily on or around the core HPCC platform," said Rob. "The Summit is like a gallery of genius. Many elites in the HPCC field will show up. It's a perfect opportunity for Comrise to participate in and give a speech about our product. I felt very excited and honored when I was selected as one of the speakers," said Cecilia.
