The company, which launched in June 2013, offers a telephone reassurance program that aims to help senior citizens and their families by providing daily telephone calls to their clients. The calls are made by active senior citizens who have a strong understanding of seniors' needs and concerns, making the clients who are called feel more at ease. Calls can be arranged for an appointment or medication reminder or just to check up on a senior.

Senior care calls can be arranged as a medication reminder or just to check in on a loved one. The company was launched in June 2013.

We want to ease the stress of caregiving as much as possible.”

"CallCheckers was created to ease the stress that many of today's families are under. So many adult children find themselves struggling to balance raising their own family, pursuing a career and taking care of a household while also caring for an aging relative. It can be very stressful to have to check in with an older relative every day or several times a day, but if they don't check in, the adult caregivers worry and feel guilty. CallCheckers helps adult caregivers keep tabs on their relatives without having to do it themselves. We will call once, twice, three times a day or more to check on the client and then we report back to the adult caregiver, letting them know contact was made and if we have any concerns about the senior. I believe senior citizens deserve the best care possible and it's our privilege to help make that happen," said Adam Hock, Owner, CallCheckers, LLC (<http://www.callcheckers.com>).

CallCheckers, LLC offers several calling plans. Clients can choose to have one call made every day for a month for $30. Two senior care calls a day cost $55 a month while three calls a day costs $75. The company typically makes care calls Monday through Friday between the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. EST, but for an additional cost, after hours and weekend calls can be arranged.

Although the company is based on Ohio, the company serves clients across the entire nation.

Sign-up can be done online at <http://www.callcheckers.com>. Seniors do not need a special phone or equipment to receive calls. The company does not focus exclusively on senior care calls. Calls can be arranged for anyone, regardless of age.

"We want to ease the stress of caregiving as much as possible. We want to give adult caregivers a chance to catch their breath and regain some of their valuable time back without feeling guilty about it. The heart and soul of our business is helping people! Making a positive difference one person at a time," explained Hock.
