NASHUA, NH, USA, October 9, 2013 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Nashua, NH. Persian Rug Galleries, an area rug store in Nashua, NH, advises Oriental and Persian rug owners on the reasons to have their rugs appraised. This rug showroom in Nashua has been in business since 1953 and has offered many area residents accurate and professional rug appraisals performed by experts who are trained in the undertaking of rug appraisal.

Persian Rug Galleries is a family owned store that has been in existence through four generations. Over the years, their specialists have come to appreciate how important it is for rug owners to know the specifics about the rugs they own. Store specialists believe there are numerous reasons for having Oriental and Persian rugs appraised. In addition, the experts at Persian Rug Galleries have been trained and certified to appraise rugs.

If a rug owner has inherited the rug, which qualifies as an antique, they should know its value for insurance as well as estate purposes. Other reasons that should be considered when a rug owner or shopper is considering an appraisal are:

- To determine whether or not the rug is worth the cost to mend it if it is threadbare or damaged.
- In the case of a stolen, destroyed or lost rug, its worth must be documented by an insurance company to ensure the correct compensation to the rug owner.
- If the rug owner is offering the rug for sale, he or she needs to know its value on the current market.
- A person shopping for rugs to buy is better served by an opinion about the rug's worth before making the actual purchase.

Store spokesperson Fouad Mahfuz says, "Our specialists know how to properly appraise all types of area rugs, no matter what color, design, or texture they are. Plus, our specialists can generate an appraisal report for insurance companies upon request." He also stresses that store experts are knowledgeable about making assessments on a number of factors to determine the rug's value, which include age, condition, country of origin, wool quality, dyes and knotting.
