

Introducing the Intellectual Dishonesty Awards by SaveMagnets.com.

...(Inez Tenenbaum and Robert Adler) commissioners in 2008, there has been a trend of intellectual dishonesty among CPSC media and professional advocacy.

DENVER, CO, October 29, 2013 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Prior to 2008, the CPSC operated in its role to: compare relative risks, weigh industry/consumer effect, consider past policies, measure democratic opinion, and behave consistently. But upon the introduction of CPSIA, as well two new wildy commissioners (Inez Tenenbaum and Robert S. Adler) in 2008, there has been an increasing trend intellectual dishonesty among CPSC media and professional advocacy. The Intellectual Dishonesty Awards will be granted accordingly to note and track occurrences of misleading, partial, and false information, and are not limited to CPSC media outlets and advocacy partners.

Intellectual honesty is an applied method of problem solving in academia, characterized by an unbiased, honest attitude, which can be demonstrated in a number of different ways, including but not limited to:

- One's personal beliefs do not interfere with the pursuit of truth;
- Relevant facts and information are not purposefully omitted even when such things may contradict one's hypothesis;
- Facts are presented in an unbiased manner, and not twisted to give misleading impressions or to support one view over another.

Recipients of the Intellectual Dishonesty Award are invited to either challenge the award, or redact dishonest statements. As incentive to challenge the award, a tag of [challenged] will automatically be applied to the award of any recipient who agrees to a live debate on twitter for the purpose of defending statements and positions. Nominations for Intellectual Dishonesty Awards are accepted at contact\(at\)savemagnets.comsavemagnets.com).
