

Boyd Clarke Resource Capital Solutions software funding rises in 3rd quarter

According to the latest report, the investment in startup software companies has rose up a great deal since the third quarter from last year.

VANCOUVER, BRITISH COLUMBIA, CANADA, December 4, 2013 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Boyd Clarke Resource Capital Solutions says funding start-up software companies rose in the third quarter from last years levels, as the number of software companies are growing at a strong pace venture capitalists are investing a great deal more in these fledgling software companies. According to the latest report, the investment in startup software companies has rose up a great deal since the third quarter from last year. The number of deals has also risen approxamently 8 percent.

The software industry's funding accounted for the largest chunk of the total and marked a signifcant percent jump from a year ago. It is also the first time that the software industry has made such a jump in about a decade.

Software also accounted for a jump in the number of deals that Boyd Clarke Resource Capital Solutions has made this year including some of the largest investment's for the third quarter. Jerry Boyd the executive director and chief operating officer of Boyd Clarke Resource Capital Solutions says "That this is an exciting time for investing in startup software companies with more deals going into software than we have seen in a very long time."
