possible customer satisfaction rating of 5 stars in 2013 has won daVinci Green its second consecutive Talk of the Town Customer Satisfaction Award in the Contractors — General Contractors category.

With 25 years of experience in designing and building custom homes and remodeling existing homes, General Contractor daVinci Green has obtained a long list of satisfied customers by focusing on educating its customers before every project.

"We believe that a proper home remodeling project begins with a customer who is educated about the benefits and consequences of his or her choices, enabling intelligent decisions to be made and the most value to be obtained for the budget," says Tristan Joya, Master Designer for daVinci Green.

"Our willingness and ability to both educate and please our customers is one of the key factors that has led to winning two straight customer satisfaction awards," says Joya. "We are available to our customers seven days a week, and our Home and Living Showroom provides a place where potential customers can see the quality of our workmanship. We actually show how the products wear with daily usage. The craftsmen who have worked in the showroom are the same ones who will work in your home."

The team at daVinci Green has spent years researching the best and most reasonable craftsmen in the industry. Therefore, the company can provide maximum value at lower prices.

Joya says that "As human beings, we at daVinci Green are not infallible, but the company stands by its customers and its work and will get it right for them.

In addition to providing superior craftsmanship to its customers, daVinci Green gives back to the community whenever possible. "We utilize the services of charitable organizations to remove and reuse whatever can be donated to those in need," says Joya. This also provides a tax deduction for customers.
