

Adopting Novel Approaches in Drug Delivery Systems

OMICS "4th International Conference and Exhibition on Pharmaceutics & Novel Drug Delivery Systems" slated on March 24-26, 2014 at Hilton San Antonio, USA

LOS ANGELES, CA, USA, January 9, 2014 /EINPresswire.com/ -- More than 1400 approved or controlled drugs are in use worldwide and 20% of them are generic drugs. Majority (52%) of drugs are administered orally, worth of $49 billion and it is expected reach $90 billion in a span of three years (by 2016). Injectable drug market is also fast expanding to $29 billion by 2015. Of late, several novel drug delivery systems (NDDS) are emerging with renewed advantages ensuring increased efficiency and duration of drug activity, increased patient's compliance with decreased dosage, with reduced or minimized side effects.

It is OMICS Group's 4th International Conference and Exhibition on Pharmaceutics & Novel Drug Delivery Systems" to be held on March 24-26, 2014 at Hilton San Antonio, attains significance as it is going to do well at length about the recent developments in the drug delivery system.

Major tracks of the Pharmaceutica-2014

- Pre-Formulation Considerations for Conventional Dosage Form Development
- Formulation Aspects for Various Routes of Drug Administration
- Recent Technologies in Novel Drug Delivery Systems
- Nanotechnology in Drug Delivery Systems
- Prodrugs for Targeted Drug Delivery
- Recent Advances in Targeted Drug Delivery
- Major Challenges in Drug Delivery Systems
- Physiological Considerations of Drug Delivery
- Advances in Biotherapeutics-Drug Discovery and Development
- Vaccine Drug Delivery Systems
- Regulatory Issues in Pharmaceutics and Novel Drug Delivery

Renowned speakers for this event are

- Erik Rytting, University of Texas, USA
- Gulay Yelken, Sanovel ILAC, Turkey
- Konstantin Tsinman, Pion Inc., USA
- Afsaneh Lavasanifar, University of Alberta, Canada
