

Method Test Prep Launches First Annual ACT Week with Free Webinars

WEST ISLIP, NY, USA, January 14, 2014 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Method Test Prep is launching their first annual "ACT* Week" from January 29th through February 4th. The test prep company will offer five free online classes for parents, educators and students throughout the week.

The online classes will cover the facts about the ACT and key strategies that students can use to perform better on all components of the standardized test.

Students can register for the free online classes at <http://methodtestprep.com/act-prep-week/>. Every day at 9:00 pm EST Method Test Prep instructors will teach a 45-minute class on a new subject. If the times aren't convenient for participants, they can register and receive a recording of the session the day afterwards.

The sessions include:

Students entering their junior or senior year of high school often take the ACT to submit for admission. Prepping for the test is essential for any student that wants to maximize their future ACT scores, their options for college attendance and their scholarship opportunities.

All Method Test Prep classes are taught by professional instructors. MTP's instructors regularly take the SAT and the ACT in order to stay up to date with the current test, and develop new strategies for maximizing scores. Most work hundreds of hours per year preparing students in person or through online tutoring. They have graduated from top universities and bring their passion and enthusiasm for teaching to these free online classes as well as standard SAT and ACT prep classes.
