

IT Governance announces participation at The Future of Cyber Security 2014 Conference in London

ELY, UK, January 30, 2014 /EINPresswire.com/ -- IT Governance, the fast-growing cyber security services provider, has announced that it will participate at The Future of Cyber Security 2014 event which is to take place in London on 20 March.

Organised by the IMM Group, The Future of Cyber Security 2014 will bring delegates up to date with the most pressing security threats of tomorrow. The conference will examine how the rise in cyber crime is changing the way we legislate, deploy services and do business. And with the growing prevalence of targeted international cyber attacks, it will investigate the potential for a global cyber security strategy.

The conference is expected to attract over 300 senior decision makers to learn, discuss and discover new technologies and strategies to combat cyber crime. Attendees can register here: www.psbееvents.co.uk/vip-register/view.php?id=1

Alan Calder, Founder and Executive Chairman of IT Governance, will deliver a talk on “The Power of Cyber-Resilience – Managing Risk and Recovering from Breaches”.

Cyber-resilience is one of the latest approaches adopted by savvy organisations. Calder explains that they understand the importance “to repel cyber attacks while protecting critical business assets, rapidly adapting and responding to business disruptions and maintain continuous business operations”. According to the cyber security expert and Forbes Magazine, ‘cyber resilience’ will replace ‘cyber security’ in 2014.

The IT Governance team will be on hand to provide expert advice on cyber security training and qualifications to interested delegates based on the company’s end-to-end approach to cyber security which also encompasses books, tools and professional services.

The Future of Cyber Security 2014 takes place on 20 March in London.
