

Texas Drive Safe Explores the Question 'Speeding Is It Really Worth It?'

Online provider of Texas defensive driving courses publishes an infographic detailing the phenomenon of exceeding the speed limit.

SUGAR LAND, TEXAS, USA, February 3, 2014 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Speeding is the cause of many car crashes and is often the root of poor driving habits. Is it really worth it? Texas Drive Safe, a leading website offering a state approved online Texas defensive driving course, has compiled an infographic that explores facts and statistics related to the nationwide phenomenon of exceeding the speed limit. The company has published "Speeding Is It Really Worth It?" on its website as a resource for both teen and adult drivers.

We were inspired to put together this infographic in the hopes that more people would be aware of the risks and dangers involved with speeding.”

Troy Caesar

"The statistics about speeding are astounding," said Troy Caesar, vice president of Texas Drive Safe. "We were inspired to put together this infographic in the hopes that more people would be aware of the risks and dangers involved with speeding. When you see all of this information in one place, it really makes you realize that the modest time saved isn't worth all the extra risk."

The Texas Drive Safe infographic points out some interesting statistics, including the fact that the average cost of a speeding ticket and fees is about $150.
