

Spirogen Discuss Creative Ways to Make the ADC “Smart Bomb” Smarter

Spirogen to lead panel debate and make a keynote address at SMI's 3rd annual ADC Summit this May

LONDON, LONDON, UNITED KINGDOM, March 12, 2014 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Philip Howard, PhD Chief Scientific Officer from Spirogen will be leading a panel debate at SMI's 3rd annual ADC conference taking place in Central London on 19th and 20th May.

Attendees will be invited to discuss creative ways to make the ADC “smart bomb” more intelligent when building an oncology arsenal. The panel debate taking place on 19th May, will be led by Spirogen and will address the latest challenges and improvements to various pieces of the ADC technology puzzle pertaining to antibodies, drugs and the linkers that bond them.

Philip Howard will then go onto present an opening keynote address on 20th May. The presentation entitled: The Development of the Pyrrolobenzodiazepine ADC Platform, will focus on antitumor antibodies, Pyrrolobenzodiazepine antibody conjugates and the development of synthetic Pyrrolobenzodiazepine.
