

Custom Body Kit Manufacturer Says That American-Made Automotive Kits Are Better Than Those Manufactured Overseas

Sarona Inc., who manufactures, & distributes custom body kits for customers worldwide, after market automotive accessories are better when they are from the USA

NEW YORK, NEW YORK, UNITED STATES, March 28, 2014 /EINPresswire.com/ -- "In an age where manufacturing has become a global phenomenon, Sarona continues to manufacture its products right here in the United States," says Sal Bogosian, president of Sarona, Inc. (<http://www.sarona.com>). "This means that customers who are looking for after-market auto tuning and accessories can rest assured that they are outfitting their cars with the best quality products available."

According to Bogosian, Sarona's manufacturing facilities, both in New York and Pennsylvania, ensure that the company can keep up with the rising demand for products and quickly deliver quality body kits to customers. Since its inception in 1990, Bogosian says, Sarona has been steadily strengthening its position as an after-market auto tuning and accessories manufacturer.

"We have earned a respectable reputation for offering quality products to automotive enthusiasts both here in the United States and in twenty countries worldwide," he continued. "Our mission has always been to design and manufacture the best quality body kits, wings, and accessories for a whole host of different vehicles, all with the perfect fit and finish, at affordable prices."

According to Bogosian, any car enthusiast knows that the perfect body kit is made from quality materials that not only fit perfectly, but look perfect as well. From front and rear bumpers, side skirts, spoilers, paint jobs, and even side guards and roof scoops, Bogosian says that Sarona has the right kit for anyone that appreciates quality work and will settle for nothing less.

“From SUVs, coups, convertibles, sedans, and everything in between, Sarona offers body kits for virtually any car,” he explains. “Best of all, the work is done right here in the United States, so customers can rest assured that they are purchasing a quality product that can be delivered faster and more affordably.”

Bogosian says that his company’s most popular items include the Hyundai Genesis Coupe Project, the Hyundai Genesis Lip Kit, and the Dodge Charger Killer Bee.

Since its inception in 1990, Sarona (<http://www.sarona.com>) has been steadily strengthening its position as an after-market auto tuning and accessories manufacturer. With facilities in both New York and Pennsylvania, Sarona has earned a reputation for manufacturing quality products both in the United States and worldwide.
