

T3 and ACI form an alliance to build a New World-Class Business Aviation Service Center in Asia

T3 and ACI have signed a partnership agreement to create and launch a new Business Aviation Service Center in Asia

SUBIC BAY , PHILIPPINES, April 4, 2014 /EINPresswire.com/ -- T3 (T3 Private Jets Asia Limited) and ACI (Aviation Concepts Incorporated) have signed a partnership agreement to create and launch a new Business Aviation Service Center in Asia, located at the largest business jet facility in Asia. "Being chosen to be the partner for ACI is very exciting, the formation and launch of ACTSI (Aviation Concepts Technical Services Incorporated) is our top priority. Our team has been very successful in building business aviation service centers and we are proud to have been chosen to partner with a highly respected industry pioneer such as Terry Habeck, CEO of ACI and ACTSI." says Mark Thibault, Managing Partner for T3 Private Jets Asia Limited.

ACTSI offers a fresh approach and a new solution to the capacity issues that many of our competitors in the region are facing, such as in Hong Kong, Beijing, and other regional airports. The ACTSI facility in Subic Bay, Philippines is large, very well equipped, secure, safe, and very competitive. The costs for parking a large cabin business jet in our hangar is often less than parking outside at Hong Kong or many of the over crowded, expensive, and less efficient airports in the region. When your aircraft is at the ACTSI facility for maintenance, there is no charge for the hangar.

"The Subic Bay International Airport, with its close proximity to Hong Kong is an aviation paradise for aircraft owners and management companies. ACTSI provides full service center capabilities with internationally licensed engineering staff and has made considerable investments in tooling, training and equipment." says Terry Habeck, CEO of ACI and ACTSI.
